PROFILE

I'm a web developer with a passion for both coding and coaching. With a solid background in developing software by online and teaching programming languages, I thrive in guiding others toward success. And also with 4 years of coaching experience, I've developed effective communication skills and an ability to simplify complex concepts. My passion for problem-solving and continuous learning keeps me engaged with the latest trends in the field. I'm excited to bring my coding skills, coaching experience, and enthusiasm for learning to collaborative projects.
